Friedrich Burmeister, the GDR Postal and Telecommunications Minister and a member of the CDU/Ost, stated at the CDU/Ost headquarters in East Berlin that the government had forbidden the inclusion of members of the government and prominent SED members in the new telephone directory. The measure had been demanded by the SED Central Committee and the SSD. Burmeister also said that, by order of the SSD, the telephone numbers of leading government and party functionaries must be changed every two weeks. This measure was taken although the Postal and Telecommunications Minister pointed out that this procedure was bound to lead to technical difficulties and confusion.
